Continued Improvement of the President.

Washington, July 12.—The unavoidable symptoms which made their appearance yesterday afternoon have entirely subsided. The President passed a very comfortable, restful night. Pulse, 96; temperature, 99. This would seem to indicate that the increased pulse and temperature of last evening was merely the temporary fluctuations due, as the surgeons supposed at the time, to some momentary lax upon his nervous system, rather than to any permanent unfavorable change in his condition.

OFFICIAL BULLETINS.

Executive Mansion, 8 a. m.—The President is comfortable this morning. The rise of temperature noted in last evening's bulletin began to diminish about an hour later. The pulse is 96; temperature, 99; respirations, 22. (Signed) D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN.

Executive Mansion, 1 p. m.—The President is passing a comfortable day. Pulse, 100; temperature, 100; respiration, 24.

Colorado Press Association.

Denver, July 12.—The meeting of the Colorado Press Association was held in the Supreme Court room to-day, the attendance being fair. Several new members were elected and officers chosen as follows: President—O. H. Rothacker, Denver Tribune; Vice-Presidents—B. W. Steele, Colorado Springs Gazette, and Eugene Wilder, Boulder News and Courier; Recording Secretary—W. E. Pabst, Colorado Farmer; Corresponding Secretary—W. G. Smith, Golden Globe; Treasurer—R. H. Tilney, Boulder Banner; Executive Committee—Dr. Makk, Colorado Journal; Dr. R. M. Stevenson and John Atkins, of the News; Orator—Captain James I. Smith; Poet—Eugene Field. The annual oration will be delivered this evening by Major Henry Ward, of the Denver Republican, and the annual poem read by Mr. Stanley Wood, of the Colorado Springs Gazette. To-morrow, Wednesday, the association goes to Idaho Springs, and Thursday starts to Santa Fe, N. M.

Still Balloting for Senators at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., July 12.—The joint convention ballot for short terms—Lapham, 68; Everts, 1. Necessary to a choice, 78.

The chair announced that no choice had been made, and directed that a vote be taken to fill the long term vacancy.

When Senator Davenport's name was called he said, as several members had voted for Sherman S. Rogers, he desired to state that that gentleman was not a candidate.

The vote resulted as follows: Kernan, 52; Miller, 70; Wheeler, 21; Adams, 2; Chapman, 2; Fisher, 2; Daniels, 3; Bliss, 1; Stanford, 1; Everts, 1. Necessary to a choice, 78. Adjourned.

Pursuing Horse Thieves and Murderers.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—The citizens are hotly pursuing the trail of the Williams brothers who shot dead William A. Coleman, deputy sheriff and brother of Charles A. Coleman, ex-sheriff of Pepin county, Wisconsin, who attempted to arrest them for horse stealing at Henderson, Illinois. The pursuing party, numbering forty, are gaining accessions hourly. If caught, the murderers will be shot down, for they will never surrender.

Denver to Have Electric Light.

Denver, July 12.—Four towers are being erected for the purpose of lighting the city by electricity. The light will be in operation at the Union Depot Thursday, and in the stores some time next week. The towers will be finished and the streets lighted by electricity about the first of August.

Governor Perkins Agrees.

San Francisco, July 12.—A dispatch from Sacramento says Governor Perkins has agreed to the propriety of a National Thanksgiving on the President's recovery, when he is out of danger.

Leadville Lightning.

DOWN TWO HUNDRED FEET TO DEATH.

Leadville, Col., July 12.—John D. Jones, a miner, fell from a bucket this morning into a two hundred foot shaft at Denver City mine on Yankee hill. The body struck the bottom with a sickening thud and rebounded several feet in the air. Death was instantaneous. The man had struck feet first and his legs were driven literally into his body and the flesh was only a mass of blood and torn sinew. The upper portion of the body was comparatively uninjured save that the blood had been forced from the eyes and mouth. The rules of the company strictly prohibit anyone ascending in the bucket and the accident was the fault of the man himself.

HOLD-UP ARTIST.

Harry True, the hold-up artist, still occupies quarters at the county jail waiting action of the grand jury.

THEY GOT ALL HIS DUST.

Last evening an old miner named Mike Kelly, while on a spree wandered into the house of Annie Monihan, on French Row, and was there robbed of everything he had including his watch and chain.

The woman, together with Dick Murray, a low character who had been hanging around the place, were arrested and will be detained to answer before the upper court.

MIXING CAPITALISTS.

General John McCarty, a leading Eastern capitalist, was in the city to-day on business connected with the opening up and development of some valuable mining property recently purchased by the company of which he is the head. He left this afternoon for La Veta where he has acquired a large interest in recently discovered and very rich copper mines.

THE RAZOR.

Kate Armstead is one of the lowest of abandoned nigger women whose cabins stand in Coon Row on State street. This morning, between 8 and 9, a tall athletic midget, named Andrew Lewis, knocked at her door, and receiving no reply, pushed it open and entered the room where Kate was lying in bed. She ordered the man out, but instead of obeying he slammed the door shut, the spring lock holding it fast. The man was under the influence of State street whisky and a quarrel ensued, resulting in his drawing a razor and trying to cut her throat. The woman threw up her hand to guard her throat and received a terrible gash, laying open the flesh from shoulder to elbow, and cutting to the bone the entire distance. This seemed only to inflame the murderous wretch to greater frenzy, and after chasing her around the room, he caught her by the throat and drew the razor across her side. The keen blade sank through the left breast, cutting down to the ribs, leaving a gaping wound into which two hands could have been thrust. With two more slashes, that cut the flesh to ribbons about the wound, the man released hold on the woman's throat and jumped through the window and fled. Officers Welch and Allen found and arrested him in a small vacant cabin near by. The woman is now hovering between life and death, with a decided chance for the latter.

Cablegrams.

SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Constantinople, July 12.—The Sultan entertained the idea of having judgment in the case of the alleged murderers of Abdul Aziz annulled by a court of clemency, but it was reported to him that this would involve the necessity of a new trial and the danger of further scandal. The Sultan then decided to commute the death sentences.

GAGGING THE PRESS.

Vienna, July 12.—The police seized nearly all the leading Vienna journals for publishing a resolution passed by the Constitutionalists belonging to a German club. The resolution was not an attack on the Taaffe Ministry, but only an expression of the general feeling in regard to the arrogance of the Czechs and their menaces against the Germans.

THE REMAINS OF POPE PIUS IX.

Rome, July 12.—The body of Pope Pius IX, in accordance with the terms of his will, will be removed to-day from St. Peter's Church, of San Lorenzo. The ceremony will be private.

ARAB RACKET.

Paris, July 12.—A dispatch from Algiers states that Chief Banam, with 1,500 Arabs, twice unsuccessfully attacked the town of Boudor. The place was defended by three companies of French rifles. Banam fled southeast after losing 250 men.

Fatal Fooling.

Santa Fe, July 12.—Charlie O'Neil, who was accidentally shot in Bonanza City Saturday died on Monday night. He was conscious and knew that death was approaching and realized that he had brought about his own death. He and a friend, Joe Bush, had been snapping revolvers at one another and finally Bush shot him. He had placed the cartridges in the gun himself and had repeatedly snapped it without discharging. O'Neil stated that it was his fault and cleared his friend of all blame, saying "it's my luck." His body was brought to this city for burial as he had requested. [Further particulars of the unfortunate affair will be found in another column.—Ed.]

An Iowa Flood.

Des Moines, July 12.—Raccoon river continues to rise. South Des Moines is under water. Sixty families are out of their houses. The track of the C. B. & Q. has succumbed, and Des Moines is now out of connection with the East. This is the heaviest rain storm in the history of this section.

A young lady of Holyoke, Mass., where there are five women to one man, has come forward as a missionary to bachelors, and offers to lead a galaxy of 100 maidens to the West.

Cincinnati Items.

Cincinnati, July 12.—Bishop Elder, after pontificate mass this forenoon, addressed the delegate convention of Catholic Knights of America, and was followed by Mayor Wm. Means in a brief address.

The weather in the forenoon was cooler, thanks to a fresh breeze. The death rate among children and the aged and debilitated has been fearfully accelerated by the unprecedented scorch of the last three days.

Comet to Split.

Washington, July 8.—The astronomers at the National Observatory are taking close observations of the comet, and evidently expect that it will split. The Government astronomers thus describe the observation taken: "The observation was taken night before last about half-past 12 o'clock, when the comet was at its lower culmination. There was a bright tongue of light, about fifteen seconds of arc long, extending from the nucleus in the direction of the tail, with a bright spot of light, or an apparent nucleus near the end. The streak was curved to the right. Before that time this had never been observed. This is a new feature. The line of light was continuous. It probably indicates that the nucleus is separating. We are anxious to observe it to-night, if it is clear enough to see. It is very likely that this line will be separate from the nucleus."

The tail of the comet, Mr. Rock explained, as it traveled away from the earth was foreshortening and growing dim. Soon the tail would be on the side of the comet away from the earth. Then it would appear to us just like a speck of light surrounded by a haze. The astronomers were unable to get any observations last night on account of the clouds.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat (ex-Confederate organ): We still hope—at midnight on the 4th of July—that Mr. Arthur will not be called to the Presidency by the death of Mr. Garfield; but if such should be his lot we should doubt the propriety of Mr. Conkling's appointment as the successor of Mr. Blaine, or rather we should doubt the propriety of Mr. Conkling's acceptance of such an appointment. It would be no triumph over his old enemy, Blaine, for Conkling to take his place under the circumstances. Besides, Mr. Conkling resigned his seat in the Senate and went to New York to seek a vindication from the people through their representatives at Albany. An appointment from Mr. Arthur would not be a vindication by or from the people. Mr. Conkling must continue his fight at Albany, irrespective of the effect of the tragedy at Washington.

Mesilla Valley.

The Mesilla Valley is one of the garden spots of New Mexico. Whether the mines prosper, whether the resources of the Territory are ever developed, or whether other railroads are built, does not effect the prosperity of this valley. We have here the soil, the climate and all the requisites of permanent prosperity. * * * Farmers are generally the last men to settle in a new country, but they are the people who make a country great after all. Immigration of this character to the Mesilla Valley has not fairly set in yet. When the farmers commence coming in earnest we may expect an era of prosperity to which other portions of the Territory are strangers.—Rio Grande Republican.

Messrs. Morehead, Jasper and Cronin returned on Wednesday from a three week's trip to the coal fields in the north end of the Organ mountains. While there they sank to a depth of ten feet, but working under such a disadvantage, having to carry their water a distance of four or five miles, and the weather being so warm, they concluded to suspend operations for a while. They demonstrated, however, the existence of coal, specimens of which they tested in the fire and found to burn. They believe at a very little greater depth a fine body of coal will be found. Specimens brought in are pronounced by those experienced in coal mining to be a species of cannel coal.—Norman's Thirty-Four.

It may not be generally known, yet it is a fact, that President James A. Garfield is a most distinguished Mason and Knight Templar, and has gone through all the chairs of the order with the highest honors, and is recognized as the only Knight Templar that ever occupied the highest position in the nation, and his attempted murder by the wretch Guiteau has cast a dark gloom of sorrow over the Masonic fraternity throughout the world. Many of the most prominent lodges of the organization have passed resolutions of sympathy for the wounded chief. President Garfield is also a prominent member of Odd-Fellowship.

A Cowboy's Legacy.

On Saturday, in Tucson, Thomas Harper, a cowboy, was hanged for the murder of John Talleday, on last September. His demeanor on the scaffold was cool and jaunty. He made no confession, but left a letter to "Curly Bill," a well known desperado, admonishing him to take warning from him and not to be too handy with his pistol, and to "stand a heap from a man before you kill him."

New York Tribune (Rep.): Mr. Conkling is not of a teachable disposition in general, and he has seemed of late especially disinclined to receive admonition in a becoming spirit; but we will venture, nevertheless, to advise him to say as little as possible on political matters for a while. The public hold the same feeling toward him at present that the Irish judge expressed to a too loquacious person at the bar: "I want nothing from you but silence—and mighty little of that."

LAS VEGAS

As Others See Us.

Joe Fluffer, special correspondent of the Kansas City Journal, after making a tour of New Mexico, contributed an ably written article on the Territory that filled nearly fifteen columns in Sunday's issue of that paper. We clip the following mention made of this city:

"I have purposely omitted mention of Las Vegas before in order to give it deserving prominence in the summary of important towns of the Territory. It is the youngest, having no boast of antiquity to make, but possesses attractions of greater moment to the practical, progressive utilitarian spirit of the present age."

"On the first of July, 1879, the first train of cars entered the town, and three days later the most unique celebration probably ever held in the United States on the national anniversary was held in Las Vegas."

It was part Mexican and part American, and the former in representing the old order of things held the preponderance in numbers, in orators and in display of flags. But the utmost harmony prevailed, and as the Spanish and American flags were draped over the locomotive, the sentiment was proposed that it should be the witness of a closer union of the races, the bond of a perpetual treaty of peace and good will."

Then commenced a new era in the history of Las Vegas. For a time it remained the terminal point of the road, and all the teams that had been engaged in the overland freighting trade were needed to distribute the goods landed at this point. The freight receipts of the railroad company reached at one time the enormous sum of $300,000 monthly. The extension of the railroad did not affect the town disastrously, as it was predicted it would; on the contrary, it has enjoyed unexampled prosperity, and is to-day a city of 8,000, with its future fully assured."

Jeff. Davis on the Attempted Assassination.

Louisville, Ky., July 9.—The Courier-Journal prints the following: Beauvoir, Harrison County, Miss., July 5, 1881.—Mr. Finley S. Collins: DEAR SIR—I have received yours of the 4th inst., and thank you for the kind expression it contained. The evil influence to which you refer as causing the bitterness felt toward Southern men it may fairly be expected will give way to the sober sense of the people, if they shall, like yourself, detect the cordial motive for which the stimulants are administered. I will not, like the telegram you cite in regard to the attempted assassination of the President say I am thankful the assassin was not a Southern man, but will say I regret he is an American. The crime is black enough in itself and has a deeper dye from the mercenary motive which seems to have prompted it. I sincerely trust the President may recover and that the startling event will arouse the people to a consideration of a remedy for the demoralization which a wild hunt after an office is creating. With the best wishes for your welfare, I am very truly yours, JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Las Vegas Hot Springs.

Leaving the cars at Las Vegas, on the return trip, our party took carriages and drove up the valley of the Gallinas, six miles, to where the river debouches from the foot hills at the famous Ojos Calientes—hot springs—of New Mexico. These springs have from time immemorial been credited by the Indians with possessing great medicinal virtues, and are known by every tribe and nation in the Rocky Mountain region. They are eighteen in number and range in temperature from 115 to 145 degrees Fahrenheit. The earliest account of American occupancy was in 1862, when Gen. Canby established a camp and hospital there and built an adobe bath house which is still standing. The site came near being chosen for the location of Fort Union in 1857.

Two commodious and elegant hotels offer excellent accommodations for tourists and invalids and a well appointed bath house is but a step away, and connected by a rustic bridge swinging far above the babbling stream. Great pines in the charming irregularity of Nature are scattered about the lawns and tempt the visitor to their refreshing shade, while the aroma of their foliage mingles with the fragrance of exotic flowers and clinging vines. The scenery along the canyon through which the river rushes, is beautifully picturesque, and reminds one of Idaho, with the added charm of finer sky effects and withal a more equable climate. From the balconies, glistening fields of snow may be seen on the distant peaks throughout all the summer days, and through the gateway to the East, emerald fields along the river down to the city and beyond. The climate of the place is that delightful season that reconciles the asperities of winter and the languor of summer in a perpetual spring.—Joe Fluffer, in K. C. Journal.

The Mexican export duty of five per cent, duty on silver ore went into effect on the 1st.
